“ What can a daughter say about losing the absolute best mother in the world ? You were always there for me in the good and bad and didn't judge me for the bad even when I judged myself . You drove me crazy as I'm sure I drive my girls crazy , somehow I guess that's just part of a mother's job but I never once felt anything but your love for me and I feel so blessed to have had you as my mother . I find it harder and harder to breathe in this world without you and it has only been a week , I keep thinking it was just so sudden and I didn't have enough time , I wasn't ready yet but I know even if I had 20 more years it still would have not been “enough time” but I guess God needed you more and I have to accept that but I'm so lost without you , I have family all around me but yet I have never felt so alone in all my life and I can't foresee this getting better as long as you are gone. I don't know how you managed to live life as long as you did once your momma passed (that in itself shows your strength) and I hope you are with her and the others that have passed once again. I will forever love you and miss you , my life will never be the same ! I love you my sweet, crazy momma , can't wait until the day I see you again .

Love,
Bridge

“ We loved her like another mother. She kept my hair looking good for 15 years until she retired, and it's never looked as good since. She was always especially kind to me. We will miss her terribly. Love and prayers to all her family. As always, we are here for you anytime you need us. Especially to Kayla and Tori: extra love and prayers. We both love you very much!
