“ I am so sorry to see this. For the last several years I had really good intentions to go visit her. I never did. Now, I'm so angry with myself. I know y'all love her and will miss the Mama Betty that we all knew. We all also know that she is in a much better place and not in any pain. I loved her dearly as a child growing up next door to the Slater family. In a much later life our paths would cross again when I remet Jeff and Dennis, the little boys I loved to take care of and push down the street in their strollers. My son and Jeff's son ended up in school together and playing park ball together. Just shows you that you can always go back to where you've been and it's not a bad place.
