“Granny, its been awhile since I got on this page... In 34 days it will be a full year that you have been gone. To be honest im freaking out, things have gotten worse but better. Its gotten better with me having to live with Cheryl and everything in that situation. But with everything else its way worse Im so confused and the people that im trying to help wont listen to anything I have to say. I wish I could just call you and tell you all of my problems so that you can help me fix them or either get over them. My main problem I have told people to try to get help but no1 knows the right answer to tell me. Im lost but im here and im trying so hard but how can I try if idk what to do about it in the first place?? Maybe I need to stop trying to help everyone else until I get help...but I cant do that cause of who it is im trying to help.. ugh this is so confusing. I just hope that if you saw me that you will be proud of me....I wish you could of seen the woman that im gonna grow into... I love you so so so much its unbelievable. I didn't understand everything you did for me.. an now that its to late I do. I want you to know im sorry for everything I put you through.im sorry GRANNY
