“ Jim , James and Carley have a beach house at Ft Morgan. Once it was painted red. Then Hurricane Sally came along and it had to be rebuilt. I asked what color to paint it and Jim said " red of course". I asked him to pick another color as it had already been red. And I asked him why he was stuck on red. His answer was " For Alabama of course". Then he proceeded to tell me that every house in that neighborhood was painted a football color. I said that was not true and we giggled and laughed about that for a long time. He never changed his mind. Till the end all the houses at Ft Morgan were painted football colors. LOL...
