“ What can I say Becca? We grew up together. You were more like my big sister than my cousin. You were the smartest of all of us grandkids. I remeber when you took tap dancing. And you taught me sign language. I gave you your first cigarette. We shared clothes. We slept in the same bed every time i stayed at Mawmaw and Pawpaws house. You broke up with a guy just because you knew i liked him. You were our Butter Bean. And you always made me feel like i was beautiful no matter how fat i was. And you left a bigger imprint in all our lives than you thought you did. And just as big of a whole in all of our hearts. You may be gone from this world now but you will never ever be forgotten. You will be missed more than you could have imagined. Every holiday. Every may. Every Day. I Love You. Always have and Always will.
